Takoma Park Man Killed in Accident On Crescent Rd., Companion Injured

Greenbelt's first automobile fatality in many years occurred in the early hours of Sunday, June 27, just a few days after the Greenbelt Police Department received a citation for its pedestrian safety record in 1964. The dead man was 21-year-old Kenneth Ray Faulconer, 7502 Holly Avenue, Takoma Park.

Faulconer was driving a 1958 Plymouth sedan at high speed when the accident occurred at 4:45 a.m. at the intersection of Crescent and Parkway. Faulconer lost control of the car, which left the road, plowed through 28 feet of privet hedge, and crashed into a telephone pole, breaking the pole in half.

Sixteen-year-old Charles Edward Rice, 714 North Main St., Mt. Airy, was the only passenger. He is listed in serious condition at Westminster Hospital, with multiple fractures of the right leg, concussion, and a broken jaw. The automobile, which belonged to Rice's father, was completely demolished.

Neighbors heard the crash and called the police. A Rescue Squad ambulance arrived promptly, but Faulconer died en route to the hospital. Farest Johnson of Glen Burnie was the only witness to the accident, which was caused, according to Police Chief William Lane, by excessive speed. A sign near the scene of the accident lists the speed limit as 25 miles an hour.

Greenbelt's last traffic fatality occurred when a child on a bicycle was run over by an automobile.

School Desegregation in PG

The Prince Georges County Board of Education on Tuesday, June 22, approved a policy for furthering desegregation of the public schools.

The policy provides for a "unitary educational system of school attendance areas which shall be operated without regard to race, color, religion, or national origin. The program of desegregation which began in Prince Georges County in 1955-56 will be continued, accelerated, and completed throughout the school district at all levels—grades 1-12, community college, adult education, evening high school, and all programs of extending or continuing educational opportunities — by September 1967."

Bicycle Rodeo Held

Police Chief William Lane reports that 80 bicycles were registered during the recent bicycle rodeo at the Springhill Lake community house. Police Officer Ralph Bennett acted as judge of the rodeo and passed out the awards.

WOMAN INJURED IN FALL

Policemen responding to a call from Springhill Lake on June 29 at 1:47 a.m. found a woman lying on the grass near one of the apartment buildings. She was bleeding profusely from her mouth and wrist, after a fall from a third-floor balcony. She is reported as having tried to cut her wrists a few days earlier.

The woman, who is married and has one son, is now in satisfactory condition at Leland Memorial Hospital.

Fireworks Display July 4

Greenbelt's Independence Day fireworks display will be held on Sunday evening, July 4, at about 8:30 p.m. The fireworks display will be comparable to that held in previous years and equal to the displays of a number of other cities in the area. The fireworks will be shot off from the south side of the lake near the dam and spectators are requested to watch from the city park on the north side of the lake. As parking facilities in and around the lake are limited, residents are advised to walk if at all possible. The lake area is dark, therefore, it is recommended that flashlights be taken along. In case of rain or high wind, which might cause the fireworks to endanger nearby private property, the display will be postponed and rescheduled for Monday, July 5, weather permitting.

The Disabled American Veterans have received permission and are planning to operate concession booths at the park for this event.

Police Dept. Gets Award

The Greenbelt Police Department has received the Walker Safety Award for its pedestrian safety record from the National Police Officers Association of America. The citation reads: "for having rendered meritorious service for the public welfare by materially reducing traffic accidents, fatalities, and promoting highway safety in their community during 1964." No traffic fatalities occurred in Greenbelt in 1964.

Swimming Pool Rates Reduced

Since the pool opened five days after June 12, the date after which the City indicated reductions in the season pass plans would be given, a new schedule of rates has been announced by the City Manager as follows:

|---------------------|---------|
| Resident Family | $23.44 |
| Resident Single | 14.06 |
| Non-Resident Family | 42.19 |
| Non-Resident Single | 23.44 |

Pool passes may still be obtained from the City Treasurers office in the Municipal Building between the hours of 8-4:30 on weekdays, and at the swimming pool when the Treasurer's Office is not open.

Those persons who purchased passes prior to the opening of the pool and paid the full rate will be entitled to refunds. Due to the press of other business in the Treasurer's Office, such as the preparation of tax bills and the closing of the books for the fiscal year, a procedure for issuing refunds has not yet been established. This will be done shortly, and announcements will be made in the News Review and at the swimming pool on how to obtain the refund.

Pool construction continues, with the wading pool being opened for use last Saturday. All deck work should be completed this week and the contractor is making every effort to get the new diving pool opened by the weekend. For those who have been looking for a place to sit without success, the City Manager advises that the contract calls for a number of benches around the pool deck and that these should be installed in the near future.

For those desiring greater comfort, folding chairs and lounge chairs may be rented for a nominal fee. Also this year a limited number of lockers are available for season rental by those who wish to leave swimming and sunbathing supplies at the pool.

Peace Corps Placement Test

Greenbelt residents who are considering joining the Peace Corps are invited to take the Peace Corps Placement Test, which will be held at 9 a.m. on Saturday, July 10, at 1900 E street, N.W., in Washington. This is preliminary test and requires no prior preparation; it measures general aptitude and ability to master new languages. If, for instance, the test indicates limited language-acquiring ability, the Peace Corps will try to place the applicant in an English speaking area. A Peace Corps application must be filled out and brought to the exam by those applicants who have not submitted it previously.

Fire Dept. Wins Awards

The Greenbelt Volunteer Fire Department and Rescue Squad was well represented when the firemen of the State of Maryland held their annual convention at Ocean City June 23-25. The Greenbelt group received the highest award of the 293 fire departments represented: a trophy for the "best training program" in the state.

Chief Vince Dutton accepted the award, and gave credit to Robert W. Mogel, last year's Assistant Chief, who planned the program and got it under way.

Council Appropriates Funds; Winds Up the Fiscal Year

by Mary Lou Williamson

At one of its briefest meetings City Council quickly disposed of a number of routine year-end matters last Monday night. Council agreed to appropriate an extra $6,800 for the swimming pool in order to meet the cost of improvements to the bath house and other expenses at the pool (from the Swimming Pool Operating Fund). Total construction cost now stands at $156,800. Councilman Clifford Simonson dissented.

Debate High Rise Benefits

Mike Maloney (Prince Georges County Civic Federation) and the head of the County Democratic Party will debate whether "the high rent, high rise apartment resident is a tax windfall." The debate will be heard on the Steve Allison show, WWDC radio, 1260, at 10 p.m. Saturday at the Showboat Lounge, 18th and Columbia rd., N.W.

A report released by the Prince Georges Economic Development Committee argues that high rise dwellers paid more in taxes than they received in services. The Prince Georges Home Rule Ass'n and the County Civic Federation disagreed. They charge that apartments are being built in excessive numbers.

GREENBELT WINS AWARD FOR PEDESTRIAN SAFETY

Greenbelt is one of eight cities in Prince Georges County cited by the American Automobile Association for their outstanding achievements in pedestrian safety. All of the winning cities have been past winners in this program. Pedestrian Safety Citations were awarded to the following: Riverdale, Laurel and District Heights, Md., for two years with no pedestrian fatalities; Cheverly, Md., for three years; College Park, Md., for five years; Mt. Rainier, Md., for nine years; Greenbelt and Seat Pleasant for fifteen years with no pedestrian fatalities.

In announcing the awards, Norman R. Weiss, Manager of the D.C. Division, AAA, commended the school officials, traffic engineers, police and others who contributed to the outstanding achievements in pedestrian safety in the State of Maryland in the cities listed above. He urged them to continue their efforts and maintain their unusual safety records.

Silvers Gets State Post

Greenbelter R. Hal Silvers, Civil Defense Director of Prince Georges County, told the Civil Defense Directors of 23 Maryland Counties and Baltimore City that "our primary mission is to prepare the citizens of our counties and provide the means for them to survive in the event of an enemy nuclear attack or for a natural disaster."

Silvers spoke at the First Constitutional Convention of the Maryland Association of Civil Defense Directors at Towson, Md., June 18-June 19. He was elected Executive Vice-President of the organization.

Council then gave unanimous approval to two sets of bills to be paid by the city-one for various equipment for the swimming pool, the other for miscellaneous items: secretarial chairs, floodlights for the municipal building and final payment for the construction of the North Center parking lot.

Uncollectible Debts

Council agreed to the City Treasurer's request to write off 3 uncollectible debts. Councilman Lou Bernstein stated he is not satisfied the debts are uncollectible and expressed the desire that they not be written off and forgotten.

The accounts in question are (a) B. F. Asher, $90 for cleaning up Empire place as a result of grading work done by Asher (currently under litigation); (b) Charles and William Cohen, $132.32 for replacement of sod on the Center mall following work done on underground steam pipes; and (c) Mrs. Nancy Markley, $15 for use of Youth Center by the Stepperettes. Councilman Dave Champion suggested for the future that fees for use of the Youth Center be paid in advance.

The last item on the agenda involved the return of two $2 parking fines for illegal parking on Ridge rd. near North End School. Upon inspection the area was found to be not properly posted, the tickets will be changed to warnings, and the fines (already paid) will be returned.

Additional Items

Councilman Simonson then introduced 2 additional items. A misunderstanding involving the Treasurer's office had occurred over refunds on swimming pool season passes. Anyone who paid the full amount ($25) will get a refund of $1.56 regardless of when the pass was purchased. Season passes are now on sale for $23.44.

Councilman Simonson pointed out to Council that in spite of efforts to clear away debris left by the developer of Lakecrest, nothing has been done. Six Lakecrest citizens attended the meeting to protest the advice of the city solicitor that a resident of Lakecrest rather than the city must bring suit against the developer. Councilman Champion felt there is considerable question as to whether city ordinance No. 574 is being broken for it permits debris on private property that is under active construction. Council instructed the manager to investigate the situation and take whatever action is necessary to enforce the ordinance.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Madame Editor:

I simply must protest
The criticism which with such apparent zest
You showered upon our young poets in your column
Two weeks ago. Your attitude, oh so solemn,
At first made me laugh. Was this what you did intend?
No matter what. You may have lost more than one friend.

In the first place — and please listen, Mrs. Sucher,
I believe that your column should in the future
Be limited to an editorial concern.
Stick to the topics about which citizens burn.
If you really feel you have critical powers,
Attack the professionals in ivory towers.

We expect much too much of our children today.
With all they do, when do they have the time to play?
I think it's remarkable that children so small
Can distinguish between prose and poetry at all.
It's a great accomplishment to make two words rhyme.
Greater facility with words shall come in due time.

And who is to judge what is and is not trite?
How can you say children should have greater insight?
To us, more experienced, it might be a cliché,
To them the words can be fresh as a new dawning day.

By standards applied to children of those ages,
We would have to admit they are due some wages.
Be glad they are willing to use spare time to write.
Would you rather they be roaming around at night?
And last, but not least, by tearing their poems apart,
You may have broken some poor, sensitive child's heart.

If to do more criticism you still desire,
And if you haven't yet set this poem afire,
From me you'll receive no more complaints nor more cries,
Tear this apart, and pick on someone your own size.

Rena E. Friedman

(I criticized their verse;
Next year I may forgo it.
Hell hath no fury worse
Than an offended poet.
Editor's Note)

I would like to thank Ann and Bill Hickey, Mary, Robin and Ernie Black and Gladys and Sal for carrying me to their yards for cookouts; and the Fire Dept. and American Legion for their cards.

And most of all I would like to thank my teacher, Mrs. Fink, and all my classmates for coming to see me the last day of school and bringing me a beautiful chaise lounge.

Thanks to Steve for drawing me the picture.

Thanks

We take this means of thanking our neighbors and friends for their prayers, and kind expressions of sympathy. Special thanks to members of the Greenbelt Lions Club and the Greenbelt Baptist Church for their devoted service at the death of our beloved one.

New Hazard: Cracker Balls

A new and dangerous firecracker hazard, popularly known as "Cracker Balls," has appeared in Maryland, according to State Health Department Accident Prevention Chief Ronald Niswander. Several children in nearby areas, he said, have been injured by biting into the cracker balls, which resemble small, colored candy balls and can easily be mistaken for them.

Although the purchase of fireworks is illegal in Maryland and in most areas, each Independence Day usually is marred by injuries from fireworks, firearms and explosives.

Niswander especially warned against the highly explosive cherry bomb, which he said explodes with a force equal to four or five dynamite caps. It has been known to cause death, mutilation and other serious injuries, and he stressed that it should not be used.

Highway safety flares sometimes are advertised as "safe and sane" substitutes for backyard fireworks, but they are not, emphasized Niswander. They burn for approximately 10 minutes with a tremendous heat, can set a youngster's clothes on fire, and have been known to cause serious injuries. "Sparklers," usually considered safe, are also a fire hazard and may cause burns and eye injuries.

Niswander recommended that parents take children to properly supervised public fireworks displays for July 4 celebrations in order to avoid the risk of holiday tragedies which frequently occur when fireworks are set off by children or adults at home. Greenbelt's public fireworks display will take place this 4th of July at the Greenbelt Lake Park at about 8:30 p.m.

Lion's Lines

The Greenbelt Lions Club reports that a total of 440 persons were tested at the Glaucoma-Diabetes Clinic, held three days last week in the Municipal Center. The Lions Club Eye Bank received pledges from 28 people.

In connection with record cards that were completed before examination, various questions were answered. One was, "Have you ever seen halos (or circles) around lights?" Some of the replies were, "On rare occasions," "Around angels' heads?" and "Only when my wife hits me!"

Earlier Church Service

During the months of July and August, Mowatt Memorial Methodist Church, 40 Ridge, will hold their Sunday Worship Service at 8 a.m. instead of 11 a.m.

Classes for pre-schoolers will also be changed to this earlier time and a nursery provided. You are invited to worship with our congregation.

Church School for schoolagers and adults will be at the usual 9:30 a.m. time.

Schneider - Kirkley

Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Schneider announce the marriage of their daughter, Mary Carolyn, to Mackay Cook Kirkley, son of Mr. and Mrs. John S. Kirkley, 131 Greenhill, on Saturday, June 26. The ceremony took place in the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church in Collington, Maryland.

The groom is a graduate of High Point. The couple will reside at 2715 Thirty-first St., S.E. Washington, D.C.

Attending the wedding was the groom's grandmother, Mrs. Beulah Cook of Largo, Florida.

Greenbelt Grab-bag . . . by Punchin' Judy

Greenbelt justifiably prides itself on offering many forms of recreation to both old and young, but for pure drama, excitement, suspense, and endurance, there is no sport that can excel that yearly ordeal known as "Swimming Lesson Registration."

The most gripping part of the contest occurs before the actual event. This is where you see emotion in the raw. The law of the jungle prevails. Human mothers turn into tigers on behalf of their young!

The typical contestant sets her alarm for 6:30 a.m. on the great day. Fortifying herself with a quick cup of coffee, she tells friend husband to get his own breakfast, checks on the sleeping older children, stuffs the youngest into fresh dummies, and sets out for the pool. Arriving at 7 a.m., she finds herself fifth in line. Being experienced, she has brought along some equipment. A folding chair is helpful, but she probably will not get much chance to use it, since a great deal of her time will be spent chasing her babies. At least the chair saves her place in line. A book, favored by some, is not really necessary, since there is sure to be a friend two or three places up or down the line with whom she can pass the time. Next comes the umbrella, if she brings it the weather will be clear; if she does not, a sudden storm is sure to blow up. Yes, the umbrella is good insurance, as is a bag of lollipops to hand out at strategic intervals to her squalling tots.

But now the hours of waiting are fulfilled. A hush comes over the assembly. A form appears at the glass doors of the Youth Center and the gates are about to open. Our heroine girds herself for the final sally. And then someone puffs up to the person in front of her. "I'm so glad to see you, Irma," she pants. "I've got a million things I've just got to get done today, so would you mind registering my kids?"

Well, in case you're new at this sport, we'll clue you; Mrs. Newcomer has at least half a dozen young, all in beginner's swimming. And her friend is already registering every youngster in her court, which is naturally a prolific one.

We don't want to turn this into a cliff-hanger, so we'll tell you the happy ending. Thanks to some kind of magic on the part of the wonderful swimming pool staff, everybody gets swimming lessons or a reservation for the next time around.

And in two weeks it all starts over again.

Point of View by Dorothy Sucher

I'd like to recommend to the book banners those gorgeously printed, lavishly illustrated, infinitely seductive garden catalogues. The insidious harm they do, not to the juvenile but to the adult population, is incalculable.

Last week a well-known Greenbelt citizen hobbled into the News Review office. Formerly a fine figure of a man, he was a pathetic sight: sunburned, bee-stung, mottled with poison ivy eruptions, his nails broken, his hands calloused and scratched.

"What happened, Matt?" I asked.

He shook his head. "Oh, those azaleas—they just keep coming. Do you know I was out in the garden until 3 a.m. last night, digging?"

"Digging in the garden at 3 a.m.? By the way, how's your wife? I heard she was out of town visiting her mother. Or was it her sister?"

"Don't tell me you're going to start, too. I sent her a telegram this afternoon saying she should come right home, the whole neighborhood thinks I've buried her in the azalea bed."

"Let's hope she hurries back."

"Fine, healthy, well-grown hosta clumps," Matt went on. "That's what the catalogue said. 'Easy to grow in sun or shade—a little-care perennial that will bring increasing pleasure year after year.' Tell me, can you resist something like that?"

"I can't," I admitted.

"Neither can I, so I ordered a dozen."

"And were they nice?"

"Nice? I took them out of the bag and realized immediately that they were so big I could divide each one into three or four good-sized plants. So I did."

"And?"

"Then it hit me. Twelve hostas—twelve holes. Forty hostas—forty holes. But it was too late. I had to dig forty holes, not to mention bringing twenty wheelbarrow loads of topsoil from the woods."

"That's how you got the poison ivy?"

"Right."

"But what about the bee-stings?"

"Don't ask!" he cried. "Talk about painful! I'm surprised you even recognized me. Didn't you ever notice, in the back of the catalogue, the section on bee-keeping?"

"Now that you mention it, I've toyed with the idea. Did you order a colony of bees?"

"Yes. Plus the beehive, plus the bee-keeper's hat, plus the bee-keeper's gauntlets."

"So?" I inquired.

"Trouble is, the colony of bees arrived a day before the other stuff. Wow! Quick-tempered little devils, let me tell you."

"You poor guy! Did I ever tell you about the time I received thirty rosebushes in the same delivery?"

He whistled. "That's a lot of thorns."

"You said it."

"I trust you had the rose bed all dug up ahead of time," he said confidently.

"Ha! That was the first fall after I moved to Greenbelt from New York. I'd never even seen a rose before, except in a florist's window. I figured that, once they came, I'd take a book out of the library and look up how to plant them."

"You were a pitiful novice," Matt said sadly. "So what happened—they died before you ever got them into the ground?"

"No, indeed. I planted them, finally. They spent a week soaking in the bathtub while I prepared the ground, of course. Husband didn't like that much. But I planted them and they grew; and next June they all burst into bloom in every color of the rainbow."

"And then it was all worthwhile."

"Worthwhile my foot! I went to cut my first bouquet and started sneezing my head off and breaking out in spots."

Matt shook his head. "Rose fever, eh?"

"That's what the doctor said."

"Never knew you had it before, I bet. So what did you do?"

"What could I do? We sold the house and moved."

If they win, a tie for the first place will result. Next week's schedule: Wednesday, July 7, Springhill vs Red Shirts and Kleins vs St. Hugh's. Thursday, July 8, Barbers vs Red Shirts and Fashion 220 vs St. Hugh's.

The Alumni Players

The Northwestern Alumni Players are officially in full operation again this year. Their second annual season, to be called "Summer Theatre - '65," will begin this month. Four shows will be presented in the new Prince Georges Theatre attached to Northwestern High School in Hyattsville.

The Alumni Players channel all their profits directly into scholarships. A summer stock theatre company is made up of alumni of Northwestern High School. The alumni donate their services to the project, keeping expenses low to leave as much of the proceeds as possible for the scholarship fund.

This year's season will offer four shows to the public: "The Music Man" (June 30, July 1, 2), "A Shot in the Dark" (July 7, 8, 9), "Dinny and the Witches" (July 21, 22, 23), and "Carousel" (August 4, 5, 6).

North End School, have opened and are providing fun and excitement free of charge. If your child, six years and up, has not registered, don't delay.
